

Digabit Inc. Changes Trade Name to Documoto

Digabit Inc. announces a change to its trade name, to Documoto, as of April 30th, 2018

Englewood, Colorado – Digabit Inc. has announced that effective April 30th, 2018, it has changed its trade name to Documoto.

According to CEO Steven Blanco, the name change will eliminate any confusion for customers:

“Documoto is who we are – it’s the name of our flagship product, and everything we do is focused on making Documoto the best aftermarket solution in the industry,” Blanco explains. “Because of this there’s always been some confusion. We’ve decided it would be in our best interest moving forward to change our trade name to Documoto.”

The company has a new logo to reflect the change, as well as a new website URL, which will change to documoto.com.

But as Blanco is quick to point out, everything else will remain the same. “The company will continue to offer great customer service as we move ahead with our roadmap to constantly improve our product. We’re proud of the fact that Documoto offers a superb solution for customers wanting to bring their documentation into the digital age.”
