

Documoto Announces the Hiring of Cuyler Jones as CTO

Englewood, Colorado – Documoto, the maker of cloud-based solutions for the equipment manufacturing industry, is delighted to announce the appointment of Cuyler Jones as the company’s new Chief Technology Officer, effective September 24, 2018. In this role, Mr. Jones will lead the engineering and product teams as they continue to create innovative and market-leading solutions.

Steven Blanco, Documoto’s President and CEO, states, "I am thrilled to welcome Cuyler to Documoto's leadership team. He is a proven leader and innovator with extensive experience developing highly successful products and building a world-class technology team. Along with those skills, he strongly represents our core values, our strong customer focus and our passion for success. And importantly, he shares our vision to bring transformative software solutions to the equipment manufacturing industry. We are elated he chose to make a real difference here at Documoto."

Mr. Jones has had a cutting-edge technical career of more than 20 years, through multiple industries including Finance, Payments, Data Infrastructure and Distributed Systems. He was the co-founder of a mobile application that received accolades as “Best New App” its first year, was a lead engineer at Basho, and worked as a Senior Software Engineer at Apple, solving problems related to Artificial Intelligence & Machine Learning. Mr. Jones also led the engineering team responsible for implementing one of the first commercial ASP.Net web applications. He has been on the forefront of technology with experience covering a broad spectrum of technologies, ranging from mobile devices to large scale cloud and distributed infrastructure. Mr. Jones has a solid reputation of being a superb and dynamic leader, exceptionally talented, innovative, invaluable and highly personable – his peers have the utmost respect and admiration for him.

Mr. Jones on his employment at Documoto, states, “I’m thrilled to be given the opportunity to be part of the Documoto Team and to help nurture their tenacity and energy to move to the next level in our ever expanding market. The manufacturing space is one of the fastest growing verticals right now and is starving for the types of innovative technology solutions that Documoto has and will continue to provide.”

Documoto is a Denver-based software company with a vision to help equipment manufacturers, their network, and their equipment owners “Keep the World’s Machines Working”. It’s a big vision for a huge market.

Their flagship product is an industry-leading SaaS solution that helps their customers drive real innovation in their aftermarket. With Documoto, customers can author parts catalogs and related technical content; securely distribute that content over the web to any device in a variety of languages; and find and order the right parts and products the first time, every time. Documoto customers are found throughout the globe and range from small manufacturers to some of the world's largest machinery companies and transit organizations.

For more information, visit the company's website at <http://www.documoto.com>

Contact Info:

Becky Howard

Englewood, Colorado

303.305.0415

becky.howard@documoto.com