

Clothes to Kids of Denver Receives Donation From Documoto

DENVER, February 19, 2021 (NewsWire.com) - Documoto, a Denver-based software company specializing in digital publishing and interactive content management for equipment manufacturers and asset-intensive professionals, is pleased to announce a monetary and clothing donation to the nonprofit, Clothes To Kids of Denver. Working in tandem with schools, churches, community organizations, shelters, clinics, and hospitals - Documoto is committed to helping the youth of Denver build the confidence they need to succeed.

Not having adequate school clothing can be a significant barrier to school attendance and achievement. Clothes To Kids of Denver helps alleviate those insecurities by offering free clothing and school supplies to students from low-income or in-crisis families throughout the 10-county Denver metro area. Eligible students and their families can shop in the facilities clothing store and pick out their clothes and supplies of choice.

"Clothing can change a life, and I am pleased to announce that the Documoto team supports these initiatives," said Rebecca Howard, VP of Operations at Documoto. "Clothes To Kids of Denver creates opportunities for youths in need, and we hope that our donation helps support their cause."

The Documoto team began a donation drive in the early months of December 2020. The monetary and clothing campaign continued through the new year, producing an outcome of over $1800.00 and multiple bags of clothing. To make a donation or volunteer please visit www.clothestokidsdenver.org.
